FCCLA Fair Day

Wednesday, October 10, 2012 the Pelham High School FCCLA club went to the Georgia National Fair in Perry. The club members attended a rally that morning, where they were able to meet and share with all the other FCCLA members in Georgia. The rally featured the national officers as well as multiple motivational speakers, one of which was also an artist. The artist began his demonstration with a speech on growing up with ADHA and ADD, and how it made him the man he is today. The artist started with a black canvas, upon which he drew an array of horizontal lines. At first everyone was clearly disappointed, thinking that this was all that would come out of it, but as he continued to draw, more and more images became clear. He finished his drawing with a beautiful picture of a person looking out from a cave onto the horizon over a beautiful oceanic view. The moral of the story was that great things can happen if you are willing to go the extra mile and pursue your dreams. After the rally, the members were allowed to go enjoy the other festivities and talk with other FCCLA affiliates.

Hornet Spotlight

Philippians 4:13 says, “I can do all things through Christ who strengthens me.” This is what this week’s Hornet Spotlight Corey Morgan’s mindset is during everything he does. Corey has been a part of the Mighty Hornet football team for four years playing on the offensive line. He is a known leader amongst his fellow players and students. Corey has also been a part of the Hornet tennis team for four years. He plays these sports and maintains his job at Snipes IGA and keeps his good grades. Corey has been in MCYAC for two years, and this year he is the Vice President. He also takes some of the hardest classes that Pelham High offers to students. Corey has been in the Pelham High Band since he was in middle school, and he plays the trombone. Corey loves Pelham High School and shows it by being a part of everything he can be. Recently, Corey received great news that he had been accepted into Shorter University. He plans on going to Shorter to play football and to major in computer science, so when you see Corey, congratulate him on his acceptance and also for being this week’s Hornet Spotlight. —By Christian Drake

A Trip To SWGTC

Ms. Karen Murray’s Criminal Justice class is learning a great deal about the justice system. From fingerprinting to arresting a suspect, the class is learning through a hands-on approach just what it means to major in criminal justice. Although the classroom is a learning experience for the class, the group ventured out on Wednesday, October 3rd, 2012 during third block. The class journeyed to Southwest Georgia Technical College in Camilla for student activity day. While there, they participated in games such as Bingo and Uno. For lunch, the SWGTC staff served Firehouse Subs. The Criminal Justice class had a great time while on their mini field trip. — By Yazmen McCaskill and Lexi Gilliard

Engagement Levels — FREE PIZZA

Do you know the five levels of engagement? No, they do not have anything to do with a ring, wedding, or reception. Instead, the five levels of engagement have everything to do with YOU and YOUR educational experience whether at PHS or a post-secondary school. If that does not peak your interest, perhaps this will — PIZZA PARTY!

Students at PHS had an enjoyable fall break. Most students, like freshman Savannah Sanders, hung out with friends and family. Savannah went to the mall, and then she and her family threw her little sister a birthday party. Jessie Adams, a sophomore, went to St. George Island and spent time with his family and friends. Taylor Rigsby, a junior, also had a good break. He went to the fair with his girlfriend, Brianna Woodham, and won her two goldfish. Last but not least, senior Antonio Green went to the Albany Civic Center to audition for the Southwest Georgia Competition. He modeled and was wonderful because he is now a model for SWGA and will be in his very first fashion show very soon. As for the teachers, Mrs. Prince and Mrs. Whigham cruised to the Bahamas on Royal Caribbean’s Monarch of the Seas. Welcome Back to PHS! The next holiday break will be here soon! -By Harlee Moates and Casandra Brown

Between October 18th and November 7th all PHS students will be learning about the levels of engagement and competing in a video contest. Each of the five engagement levels (engagement, strategic compliance, ritual compliance, retreatism, and rebellion) will have a winner. Be sure to be “engaged” during advisement for the next three weeks, and do your best to help your group win free pizza! —By Meg M. Whigham

Braswell’s Performance Theatre

On Monday, October 15th, Mrs. Braswell’s Performance Theatre class will be performing “The Insanity of Mary Girard” in the gym during first, second, and fourth blocks. Cast members include: Haley Wood (Mary Girard), Johnathon Leggett (Stephen Girard), Antonio Green (Fury 1/Warden), Daisy Martinez (Fury 2), Taylor Aycock (Fury 3), Christian Butler (Fury 4/Mrs. Lum) and Beth Phillips (Fury 5/Polly Fenton). Crew members include: Quadasha Thompson, Kimberly Parker, Keirra Eddins, Timesha Cleveland, Lindsey Rykard, Marvin Fulcher, Tony McIntyre, Trakeena Eason, and Y’Keyah Davis. All of these students will also be traveling to the Region IIA One-Act Play Competition on Tuesday, October 16th at Cook County High School. The play is based on actual events that spin from a haunting tale of injustice, infidelity, and abuse in colonial America. Mary Girard becomes pregnant by another man, so her wealthy husband has her declared legally insane and commits her to an asylum. Mary is confined to a chair, and her imagination begins to run wild. The inmates of the prison impersonate people from her past, and she threatens to succumb to madness. Break a leg, PHS Performance Theatre class! -By Jessie Adams and Wakeelah McIntyre
